A Play, a Pie and a Pint

The award-winning a Play, a Pie and a Pint programme presents new one-act plays at lunchtime. The price of your ticket to see the show also includes a pie and either an alcoholic or soft drink. This season sees three world premieres by contemporary Chinese playwrights, specially commissioned by the National Theatre of Scotland and Òran Mór in partnership with SaiTa Cultural LTD and Tian Qinxin Theatre Studio.

As cities grow at an astonishing rate and power shifts from one generation to the next, we take a glimpse into the lives of a handful of individuals whose stories paint a portrait of a society in flux. Inspired by real events, both intimate and political, each play dramatises the tension between public and private lives, the gap between rich and poor, and the dangers of telling lies to ourselves and others.

SECRETS

by Lin Weiran, adapted by Rona Munro and directed by Graeme Maley

An ex-lover shows up on the doorstep of a married woman. He disappeared two years ago without warning and she has built a new life without him. His reappearance threatens to shatter her new existence and rekindle their romance. But first, she wants the truth about why he left her.

THIEVES AND BOY

by Hao Jingfang, adapted and directed by Davey Anderson

A darkly comic crime story. Two construction workers turn vigilante, trying to right the wrongs of society by burgling a high-ranking, corrupt government official. However, once they get inside, it turns out they both have very different ideas about justice.

FOX ATTACK

by Xu Nuo, adapted by Catherine Grosvenor and directed by Amanda Gaughan

A thrilling psychological two hander about a promising and obsessive young pianist who commits a terrible crime to save his own skin. When he arrives home, he finds his overbearing mother waiting up for him and demanding answers as to where he's been. An unsettling true story about ambition, conspiracy and family.
